Candidates share opinions at forum

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Approximately 150 people attended a political forum at the American Legion Hall, Coleman Avenue in Waveland on Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

The forum, sponsored by Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, was moderated by John Scafidi, chamber director.

Questions were submitted to a committee of three and screened prior to the forum. No verbal questions were permitted from the audience.

Candidates were given two minutes each to respond to the questions.

Ronald Peterson and Sylvan Ladner who are running for Hancock County sheriff were the first candidates on the podium.

Peterson spoke first, saying he thought leadership is a major factor in the sheriff's office. He said he was elected president of his class four years and was captain of the football and baseball teams.

He added he was a U.S. Marine and is a Viet Nam veteran. He won numerous medals while in the service, he said.

Stating he's been sheriff for three and a half years, he told the audience of his accomplishments during that period.

He said 99 percent of indictments that came from the sheriff's office ended in convictions. During his term more people were indicted than in the whole history of Hancock County.

He said his office initiated and is investigating white collar crimes.

Asked if he plans doing anything about "the extraordinary number of accidents on Hwy. 603 caused by weekend drunks?" Peterson responded, "We have already had a survey done to see if we can put in another lane or at least a shoulder on the road. Unfortunately the highway department says there is not enough traffic to merit expansion."

"However," added Peterson, "We plan to continue to do something about the problem. We have already doubled the patrols in that area on the weekends."

Peterson's opponent, Sylvan Ladner, spoke next.

Ladner introduced himself and said he was sheriff in Hancock County for 16 years before he had to resign because of illness. He added that he is in better health now than he has ever been.

Ladner said he was city commissioner from 1949-1953 and in 1955 when he was requested to run for sheriff he did and won.

When he was sheriff, Ladner said, he cleaned out the gambling halls and got rid of the racketeers.

About Hwy. 603 he said, "When I was in office we practically begged the highway department to put in another lane or shoulder on that road."

He added, "If it's the drunks that are causing all these problems then the new law on DUI and DWI should help to control the problem." He said he is very happy to see that the penalty for DUI is now one year in jail or a fine of $1,000. And added this should help in this situation.

Larry August Ladner Sr. and Edward D. Murtagh, candidates for tax assessor, spoke next.

Murtagh, the present tax collector, said he has been in office for six years and during that period has handled over $60 million. He added assessing and collecting are big business.

Ladner introduced himself and said he would like to have the chance to be the next tax assessor.

Candidates for coroner, Carl Banderet and Howard Stanley Poole were asked, Who determines when an autopsy is to be made and what factors are considered when making it?

Banderet, who has been coroner for the past eight years, answered, anytime you have foul play on a body.

He emphasized that a coroner in Mississippi does not have to be a doctor but that in many states it is law. He said this state is 200 years behind the times.

Poole also answered the question by saying, "Whenever there is foul play on a body."

Unit system versus the beat system of road maintenance was a major issue Wednesday night.

Candidates for four district supervisor positions were asked the question: "Do you think the unit system is the most economical and would you vote for it?"

The majority of candidates said no; two candidates said yes and no.

Other questions were: Would you vote for a zoning ordinance in Hancock County? Do you think the county needs a building code? Would you favor and work for each city's legislative right of referendum? and, If elected supervisor would you be willing to appoint a black to the hospital board?

Commission seeking engineering programs

By JUNE M. HEYDT

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission adopted a resolution Thursday night authorizing Mike Smith of Advanced Developments Inc. to prepare applications to the Federal Jobs Bill Program requesting funding for engineering purposes at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Smith said the whole project will come to $850,000, and the commission should receive no less than 60 percent of the cost from the grant.

Funding is determined by the unemployment statistics in the area, labor intensity, the number of permanent jobs to be developed and the cost per job.

Smith added, "There is more money available now than's been available in the last six years."

There is also special opportunity funding available. The important thing right now, said Smith, is to apply for the money as quickly as possible.

He also noted that under the new guidelines, HUD is getting into the economic development program.

One of the conditions for receiving the grant, said Smith, is that the work under contract will be initiated within 90 days.

The commission also authorized Smith to prepare applications for a grant for the engineering on Taxiway E and sealing at Stennis Airport.

Smith's fee for both projects is $3500.

In other business—the commission accepted the bid of Mississippi Monitor Publications in the amount of $5,683 for 2500 brochures for Port and Harbor.

The commission went into executive session to discuss a terminal lease agreement with Hancock County Terminals Inc. Following the session a resolution accepting a new lease agreement was passed as per terms agreed upon for property in Port Bienville Industrial Park.

General operating docket items 1-65 were approved.

Railroad operating docket was approved.

Industrial park revenue docket was approved.

Industrial park roadway docket was approved.

The meeting recessed at 9:45 p.m. the commission will meet again at 7:30 p.m. on July 28.

Supervisors considering hospital site proposal

By JUNE M. HEYDT

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Thursday took under advisement a proposal by the Hancock General Hospital for the county to purchase a 21-acre site in Waveland for a new hospital.

The proposed location which will cost $231,000 is on Nicholson Avenue between McLaurin Street and Old Spanish Trail.

Five acres of the site are designated as city streets and the owners of the property, the heirs of Emile J. Gex, are suing to have those five acres abandoned.

The lawsuit was filed against the City of Waveland and the Board of Supervisors.

The streets have never been constructed and exist only on paper.

The owners' offer of 21-acres, contained in a 39-acre parcel, excludes the streets, since they are the property of Waveland, unless the court rules otherwise.

Walter J. Gex, board attorney, said, "There would be no further need for the suit if the county buys the property."

The original asking price for the property was $15,000 per acre but the owners have since come down to $11,000 per acre to compensate for the property dedicated for streets.

Roger Dale Ladner, District Three supervisor, raised a question about the property having been appraised at one time at $8,000 per acre.

Gex said, "The figure of $8,000 was our appraisal and it was low; $15,000 is the owners' appraisal and it is high."

The owners' offer to sell the land for $11,000 per acre will stand until Aug. 31, Gex noted.

In May the board of supervisors stated its intention to build, equip and own a new, 65-bed hospital that later could be expanded.

The hospital will be financed with revenue bonds to be repaid by the hospital income.

The estimated cost for the hospital is $10 million.

Officers purchase stolen gun, outboard motor

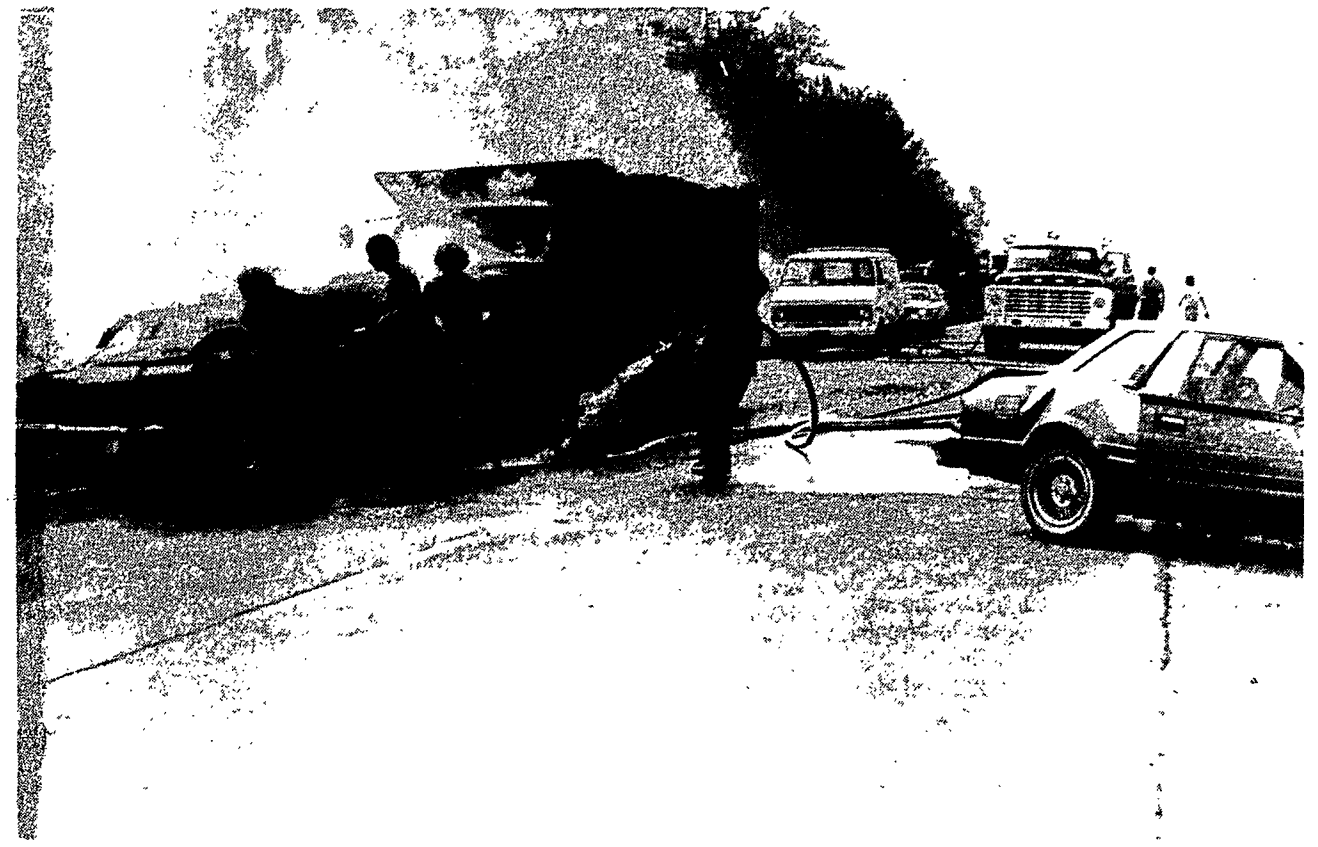

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Three were arrested in Pearlington late Saturday in connection with possession of stolen property from Louisiana, according to Alvin Ladner, Hancock County Sheriff's Department investigator.

Ladner said, "Myself and David Murtagh, a Hancock deputy, purchased a .38 caliber police special revolver, a real nice weapon, and also a 9.9 horsepower outboard boat motor at a house trailer in Pearlington."

"We obtained information during the purchase indicating the items were stolen. Then arrested three persons in the trailer," Ladner added.

Ladner reported those arrested as be-

North-south thoroughfare blocked

Six flee Hwy. 603 collision, fire

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Six people apparently escaped injury late Friday afternoon in a three-vehicle chain collision and resulting fire which blocked Hwy. 603 and slowed traffic for about 90 minutes.

The highway is Hancock County's only north-south thoroughfare.

Trooper Tony Greer of the Mississippi Highway Patrol reported at the accident scene that a dump truck driver was cited with "failure to yield" in the mishap.

He said the highway patrol received a telephone report of the accident at about 4:33 p.m.

Greer reported his investigation indicates Susan Kiehm, 41, of Firetower Road was driving her automobile south on Hwy. 603 and stopped for oncoming traffic while attempting a left turn into the Butts and Billingsly Asphalt Paving plant just north of the I-10 interchange.

Her sons, Terrence Kiehm, 14, and Duane Dieck, 15, were passengers in the small car, the trooper added.

Enick Bell, 31, of 207 Easy St. in Bay St. Louis was also driving his 1983 automobile south on the highway and stopped behind the Kiehm vehicle, Greer said.

But a dump truck loaded with fill and driven by George Waltman, 27, of Route 1, Box 127, Bay St. Louis struck the rear of the Bell vehicle pushing it forward into the trunk of the Kiehm car, the trooper reported.

Weslie Moran, 25, of Route 2, Box 899, Bay St. Louis was a passenger in the dump truck, Greer noted.

The truck's impact evidently crushed the entire trunk area of the Bell car and caused the auto's fuel tank to rupture and ignite.

All the drivers and passengers escaped as gasoline flames engulfed the Bell vehicle and cab area of the truck.

Firefighters arrived with the Kiln Volunteer Fire Department pumper and Diamondhead Fire Department water tanker to extinguish the flames and wash debris from the highway.

Greer noted the Bell car and the truck cab area were completely destroyed by the fire and the rear of the Kiehm auto was extensively damaged by the impact.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputies assisted in redirecting highway traffic slowly through the asphalt plant's access roads until the charred and damaged vehicles were removed by N.A. Perniciaro and Son Wrecker Service of Waveland and Sam Perniciaro Wrecker Service of Bay St. Louis.

Funeral services set for distinguished Bay educator, Marine officer

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Friends and relatives are invited to the wake tonight and Monday funeral for the late Col. Andrews Moore Wilkinson, 64, of 132 Grosvenor Place in Waveland.

He died Friday, July 15, 1983 at his home while battling a lengthy illness.

The wake will be conducted from 7 p.m. until 8 p.m. Sunday at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis.

A Funeral Mass will be celebrated at St. Clare's Catholic Church in Waveland at 10 a.m. Monday followed by the funeral procession to Metairie Cemetery, Metairie, La. for interment at 1 p.m. with full military honors.

Col. Wilkinson was a member of St. Clare's Catholic Church, volunteer staff member of the American Federation of Teachers—Bay St. Louis Local and born in New Orleans.

He was a retired Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District English teacher and director of the Eighth Marine Corps District based in the Crescent City.

Col. Wilkinson was also the organizer and a former AFT local president.

Representing that group, he joined the North Bay Elementary Parent-Teacher Organization in a successful civil action suit against the Bay St. Louis School District Board of Trustees and its superintendent, J.D. McCullough.

As a result of Col. Wilkinson's intelligent tenacity and the organizations' efforts, a U.S. Federal District Court magistrate in a 1980 out-of-court settlement ordered the school board to pay all of the plaintiffs' legal fees, establish a non-discriminatory policy allowing all citizens the right to speak before the board (Policy 18) and adopt another policy outlining procedures for citizens to obtain copies of any records of the district not guarded by privacy laws.

After retiring from active duty, he began teaching at Bay Junior High School in 1967 and retired from that second career in 1980.

Col. Wilkinson served in the Marine Corps 30 years.

As Marine Corps district director, he spearheaded recruitment and reserve force activities in Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arkansas.

During that time he organized the then Marine Corps Toys for Tots program which is now a nationwide free Christmas toy distribution effort, established the first Marine Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps in the nation at Jesuit High School in New Orleans, and formed the second junior unit at the Marine Military Academy in Harlingen, Tex.

COL. ANDREWS WILKINSON

The Marine district gained the most recruits out of all others nationwide for two consecutive years under his leadership.

Col. Wilkinson was also instrumental in providing Marine assistance to local communities just after Hurricane Betty in 1965.

He was also base special services officer at Camp Lejeune, N.C.; served in Japan, Coco Solo in the Canal Zone; and various posts in the United States just after World War II.

During the war, Col. Wilkinson served with the Third Marine Division which recaptured Bougainville—the largest of the Solomon Islands.

He graduated from the Marine Command and Staff School; the Marine Senior School in Quantico, Va.; and Tulane University in New Orleans in 1940 when he was commissioned as a second lieutenant.

Col. Wilkinson is survived by his wife, Mercedes Livaudais Wilkinson of Waveland; four sons, Andrews M. Wilkinson of Lafayette, La., Samuel L. Wilkinson of Waveland, Michael M. Wilkinson of Orange, Tex. and Christopher C. Wilkinson of Hattiesburg; one daughter, Mrs. George W. (Ann) Yarbrough of Saudi Arabia; and nine grandchildren.

ETV Brief

TYPICAL TOWN

Peter Davis, an Academy, Emmy and Peabody award-winning filmmaker, captured life in a "typical" American town—Muncie, Ind.—for an acclaimed five-part series, which is set for a rebroadcast at 10 p.m., Fridays, beginning July 22, on the Mississippi ETV Network. "Middletown" was first seen on ETV last year.

Davis went to Muncie to find out how the town's so-called typical American values have survived the turbulent passage into the 1980s. What he discovered and filmed for "Middletown" were the rich human dramas beneath the surface of local life, as people work, play, learn, love and pursue their ambitions in the heart of the nation.

CARD OF THANKS

The MATTIE SAMS family wishes to express its appreciation for acts of kindness by friends and neighbors at the consecration and house blessing, 448 Easterbrook St. Saturday, July 9, 1983.

Special Thanks To God. Thanks to Rev. Dr. Lawrence Collins and Rev. C. L. Sheppard who officiated.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Louise Thomas and Jessie Hommer, both of Bainbridge, Ga., and Mrs. Rose Christian of New York, N.Y.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Aron Leroy Carver would like to thank the staff and doctors of Hancock General Hospital, Brother Steve of the First Southern Baptist Church in Pearl-Lington, and relatives and friends for kindnesses shown in our time of sorrow.

MEET TIM PETERSON

Tim Peterson is the new director of the Materials Management department here at Hancock General. He previously worked for four years as the storeroom supervisor in the materials management department at Gulf Coast Community Hospital in Biloxi before coming to Hancock General. Tim and his wife, Beth, reside in Long Beach. The materials management department is responsible for providing quality medical products and supplies for the hospital at the lowest possible cost. Included in this responsibility is the continuous flow of supplies throughout the hospital. Careful anticipation of the demand for supplies adds to the complexity of Tim's duties as director of the materials management department. We think this department is very vital to assuring that our patients receive the best at the lowest possible cost. Hancock General, your community hospital that cares, is committed to providing the people of the area with the best in patient and health care, and we think it's time you got to know us!

Good Government Is Essential For Hancock County To Keep Progressing

RE-ELECT

BERT COURREGE

Board of Supervisor District 1

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the people of District 1 for allowing me to serve as their Supervisor for the past 7 1/2 years. Because of the redistricting, the West end of the County or Pearlington area will now be in District 2, but I will forever be grateful to the people of that area for their support and co-operation for the past 7 1/2 years as their Supervisor.

Although up to now I have only represented a small area of Waveland, I have enjoyed the same cooperation from its residents as well as City officials.

I would like to appeal to the voters of District 1, including the new area, for your support in the upcoming election August 2. If elected, I will continue to work in harmony with the elected City and County officials to improve our County and municipalities.

I do have some future plans when re-elected:

1. With the reduced size and distance in District 1, I will be able to conduct a better maintenance program for Ansley, Lakeshore, Clermont Harbor, Bayside Park and Springwood Park.
2. I have recently initiated the formation of a committee to seek funds for reconstruction and maintenance of our sand beach. Not only is our beach protection for the road, it is important for recreation.
3. I have an agreement with Supervisor Sam Perniciaro of District 4, to have a permanent machine and small crew to keep the beach clean.

I am proud to say that District 1 has fine operating equipment, and one of the finest maintenance crews in the county. I am proud of our past accomplishments and in spite of our present economic depression and high unemployment, our County has continued to grow and prosper. With your vote and support, I will continue striving for improvements in our County and Cities, so you and I and our children will have a better place to live and make a living.

Thank You,

District One Supervisor
Candidates for District One supervisor attending the forum were incumbent Bert Courge, James H. Thornton, Dominic C. Valachi and Don White. Courge said he is running on his record "...which speaks for itself." Saying that he has been a leader in business for many years, Thornton said, he is not afraid of a challenge. He said District One needs new equipment and if elected he will speed up purchase of equipment.

White said that his experience in the military and 36 years background in construction qualify him for the position. He said he is definitely for a zoning ordinance in Hancock County because of the many "Cracker boxes" throughout the county and said we need a building code.

District Two Supervisor
Candidates for District Two supervisor attending the forum were Ronald E. Cuevas and Alton A. Kellar. Cuevas, who spoke first, said he will increase the quantity and quality of work for his people if elected.

He added he will build and maintain recreation facilities for children. Ending his introduction, Cuevas said his education and business experience qualify him for the position.

Kellar, running for re-election, said he's been a supervisor for 19.5 years and before that spent 13 years on the school board. "I've spent over half my life devoted to Hancock County," said Kellar.

He is for building codes, but only in the flood areas and would be for placing a black on the hospital board provided another person wouldn't have to be removed.

The unit system, Kellar stated, wouldn't work in this county. Kellar said he is for the right of referendum, but not at five percent.

When asked if he thinks the county should help out the cities with certain projects, Kellar stated that he already does help the cities.

District Three supervisor.
Candidates running for District Three supervisor at the forum were Roger Dale Ladner and Oscar Peterson.

Running for re-election, Roger Dale Ladner, said he's accomplished a lot during his term adding he has black topped four miles of one road and six miles of another; built two ball parks and graveled 16 miles of dirt road.

He said he has worked on various projects for Bay St. Louis and helped with installing radios in county vehicles.

Oscar Peterson, Ladner's opponent, said he had been a supervisor for eight years and covered 35 miles of road and built five bridges.

As supervisor he said he worked as hard for Bay St. Louis as he did for Waveland.

Peterson said, "I still think I could do a better job as supervisor of beat three and as far as putting a black on the hospital board, I have no objection."

District Five supervisor.
Candidates for the District Five supervisor position are, Russell J. Elliott, Juanita Shubert, and James N. Travirca.

Elliott who has decided to come out of retirement said, "I'm happy to be back."

"I think the county and cities should work together as a whole on the roads, bridges and culverts in our community."

Elliott added, "I think the seawall tax should be used for beach maintenance, after the Port and Harbor bonds are paid off."

"The county needs a building code," said Elliott and ended by saying, "I would agree to a right of referendum at a higher than five percent rate."

Juanita Shubert, the only woman in the supervisors race, said, "What is needed is a new face and new ideas." About the unit system Shubert said, "Since this is an elected system, I think the people should vote on it."

She added about the seawall tax, "Whether its seawall tax or not, we definitely need money for the seawall."

She said she is for the building code and also for the right of referendum at a higher percentage.

As far as placing a black on the hospital board she is in favor as long as the person is qualified.

James Travirca, present District Five supervisor, said he has served on the board for 11.5 years and that he has put in many bridges and roads.

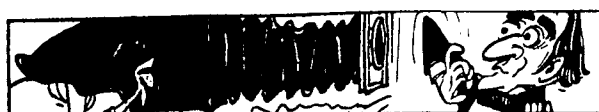

He is not for the unit system at this time.

The seawall tax should be used for beach maintenance when the bond is paid said Travirca.

He emphasized that he certainly would place a black person on the hospital board.

Mobile Medic membership a must

Once again we are in July, the membership month for Mobile Medic Ambulance Service, and we feel it is important that all families in Hancock County subscribe to this necessary service.

This August will begin the 10th year of the ambulance service which covers Hancock and West Harrison counties.

The membership fee for a family is $39 which includes husband, wife and children under 21 living at home.

During the past nine years Mobile Medic has visited almost every block of city streets and miles of the rural roads of Hancock County.

To give you an idea of how active Mobile Medic is in Hancock County, between August 1982 and May 1983, they had 218 dry runs, 517 emergencies, and 515 transfers.

We at the newspaper probably get an opportunity to see Mobile Medic in action more than the average citizen because of our coverage of many of the accidents in the county.

The efficiency of Mobile Medic has continuously improved over the years, credited in no small measure to the continuing education of the ambulance attendants.

The benefits for the $39 fee are unmatched when you consider a non-member would pay more than $125, plus additional costs for services for an in-county service call.

We know many people feel they are not old enough to worry about needing Mobile Medic services, but one must realize many of the calls over the years have been for young children and teenagers involved in accidents.

Normally a person using an ambulance service similar to Mobile Medic would have to pay extra if they are a member and need transportation to an out-of-county hospital.

The number of additional doctors at Hancock General have limited the necessity for residents to seek additional care outside of the county. Yet, there is an exception when Mobile Medic transports Hancock County members to Gulfport Memorial through a special agreement between the ambulance service and doctors, according to John Rester, Mobile Medic president.

We realize many residents may say their insurance will cover the cost for ambulance service. This is true in some cases, but most of the time personal insurance only covers a portion of ambulance services.

Mobile Medic offers ambulance service to Hancock and West Harrison counties and has 25 full-time and 18 part-time technicians, including 12 of whom have advanced levels of training.

As many of you know, Mobile Medic has a substation on US-90 behind the Wheel Inn Restaurant to service our area. Many of the technicians of the ambulance service are residents of our county.

An all-out effort is being made by the firm to give us the best emergency ambulance service, a service we feel is a necessity for our community.

We never know what time of the day or night we may need the service, no matter what our age.

July is the only month to subscribe at the low rate of $39 per family. You can get a coupon from an advertisement in this issue of The Sea Coast Echo.

We hope you won't need their services for the coming year, but if you need them and have a family membership, you can save many dollars.

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

I was recently a patient for a month at Hancock General Hospital.

During the time I was hospitalized, the entire staff, whether it be nurses, aides, doctors or members of other departments, gave me marvelous care. And no matter what time of day or night, or what shift was on duty, they were always the same — courteous, concerned and very considerate.

At times, I even found myself down, mentally as well as physically, but they were always right there, not only to meet my physical needs, but also to boost my morale mentally and emotionally.

And this cheerful, family-like atmosphere permeates throughout Hancock General Hospital, from the doctors on down to housekeeping.

In closing, let me say that I am proud to have been a patient at Hancock General, and I'm so glad we have such a fine facility in Hancock County. It's time we all stand up in support of Hancock General Hospital and be counted.

Sincerely,
Louise McCreary

HANCOCK COUNTY LAND FILL

NO BURNING OR SCAVENGING

THIS DUMP WILL... SATURDAY and SUNDAY
OPEN at 7 AM 9 AM to 11 AM
CLOSE at 6 PM 3 PM to 6 PM
NO DUMPING AFTER HOURS

BY ORDER OF...
COUNTY SUPERVISORS

LANDFILL HOURS TO BE ENFORCED—A new sign stating hours of operation and gate has been installed at the Hancock County Landfill near the Catiboula Community with the hours of operation now in effect. Sam Pernicaro, Hancock County Board of Supervisor in charge of the landfill, said the action is necessary because of orders received from Johnny Baggert, chief of the division of Solid Waste Management of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control. A deputy will be posted during the closed hours at the landfill to enforce the regulations. The dump will be open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. County employees are at the site during open hours to designate the proper areas for dumping, according to Pernicaro. The dump which is the only approved site in Hancock County, has another inspection scheduled in the coming week by the Bureau of Pollution Control. Pernicaro said burnings after hours has been a problem at the site, as well as scavengers which are both illegal according to regulations set down by the Bureau of Pollution Control. The daily garbage dumped has to be covered each day according to regulations, and a fence will soon be installed around the whole facility. We know it may cause an inconvenience to some residents who used the facility, but, our Hancock County Board of Supervisors are only acting under specific orders from the Bureau of Pollution Control. We hope everyone will try and observe the hours of operation. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

News from the Governor

UTILITY BILLS

Eligible low-income households with elderly or handicapped persons again will receive monetary assistance to help offset summer cooling costs, according to the Governor's Office of Energy Assistance (GOEA).

This summer cooling component of the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) will begin on July 1, and families certified eligible will receive one-time payments of $100 to $170 which can legally be cashed only through the energy vendors declared on their applications.

Families who have received heating assistance under LIHEAP after Dec. 1, 1982 are not eligible for summer cooling assistance.

"Funds for the cooling program will provide assistance to approximately 6,000 eligible needy families who have at least one member who is 65 or older or a member who has a physical condition aggravated by heat," said Carl B. Cooper, GOEA director. "This condition must be medically certified and documented."

All applicants must meet family income and assets tests, and the family must provide proof of income for the entire household for at least the prior month. Proof of energy responsibility also must be documented.

A single person household, for example, could have no more than $5,850 income to qualify. A family of four could have no more than $11,625.

Applicants who are approved will receive checks in the names of the vendors and the applicants.

Applications for the summer cooling program will be accepted from July 1 through August 12 by local community action agencies and other community based organizations.

It gives us 'city folks' an opportunity to see how important agriculture is in our county.

Congratulations are in order for the many members of the American Legion Auxiliary Units in Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

Both auxiliary units received numerous awards at the American Legion's convention recently held in Biloxi.

We feel it is good that our American Legion Units continue to be rated as the top units in the state.

The only two Mississippi American Legion Posts receiving National Americanism Awards were the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 of Bay St. Louis, and Waveland's Bourgeois-Stieffell-Ray American Legion Post No. 77.

So we want to also congratulate all the men of Post No. 139 and Post No. 77.

We feel each and every member of the two posts should be saluted.

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

"Small Business: The Last Frontier" is the most current film project of the U.S. Small Business Administration. A film about the pioneering spirit of the American small business entrepreneur, "The Last Frontier" was recently released in the Biloxi area and is available for group showings.

The 15 minute film explores the philosophies of three small businesspeople in a moving examination of their efforts to build their own businesses and compete in the marketplace. The film also addresses the place of the Small Business Administration in the business community and how the services of the agency have been used by businesses to get them started and help them grow.

James C. Sanders, Administrator of the SBA, calls the film "an insightful look at the small businessperson and his special needs. 'The Last Frontier' will help us get the message out that the SBA is committed to helping restore an environment where small business can be creative and competitive."

Featured in the film are C.F. Martin, III, chairman of the board of C.F. Martin & Co., makers of the Martin guitar; Morris Frankl, owner of Colorfax Laboratories, Inc., a chain of successful photographic labs; and Germaine Swanson, proprietor of Germaine's Restaurant in Washington, D.C.

The film may be scheduled through the Biloxi Branch office of the SBA.

Emergency Treatment for Insect Stings

A family softball game in the park is typical summertime fun. There goes Johnny, slipping over the clover to catch a fly ball.

"Ouch! Ow! A bee just stung me!" Everyone hurries to help. The bee left a stinger; it's gently scraped out. The sting area is washed, an ice pack is put together and Johnny is told to rest awhile. Usually, that's all the first aid that a victim of an insect sting needs. But for those who are highly sensitive to the venom of bees, wasps, hornets and yellow jackets, a sting may cause an allergic reaction that requires prompt medical attention or even the use of life-sustaining equipment.

Perhaps the best source of immediate help when a sting brings on an allergic reaction is the emergency sting treatment kit. The treatment kit isn't a substitute for professional, medical care; it simply relieves allergy symptoms until the victim can be taken to a doctor or hospital. Nor is the kit intended for all sting situations; it's used only for treating an allergic reaction during an emergency.

The distinction, here, is between local reactions, like Johnny's, which affect only the area around the sting site, and severe allergic reactions, which can interfere with one or more of the body's life-sustaining functions, such as breathing or blood circulation, and are usually characterized by shortness of breath, extreme pallor around the lips and palpitations (rapid heart beat).

The treatment kit isn't needed, and, in fact, isn't effective, when the reaction is local. But when allergies are involved, the kit can be a lifesaver, which is why allergic persons should carry a kit with them at all times. Fortunately, the risk of death from allergic reactions to insect stings is very low, especially among children.

Most sting treatment kits contain drugs that relieve allergy symptoms: epinephrine, in a syringe ready for injection, and ephedrine and antihistamines, which are taken by mouth.

You'll need a doctor's prescription to obtain a kit, and the doctor will tell you how to use it and how the drugs that it contains work to improve breathing and inhibit the allergic reaction. A tourniquet will be supplied, too, with instructions for applying it that should be followed carefully, to avoid impairing blood circulation.

Other items that you might add to the kit are: tweezers or a razor blade, for scraping away a stinger (squeezing or pulling may cause the venom sac at the end of the stinger to release more venom); a second tourniquet, in case of multiple stings; alcohol swabs or towelettes, for cleansing the sting site; and coins, for summoning help at a pay telephone.

Think about buying more than one kit — maybe a kit for your home, one for the office and one for a relative's home. The idea is to have a kit close at hand, for rapid use when you need it. You might also encourage personnel at your local swimming pool and neighborhood school to include a treatment kit as a regular part of their first aid supplies.

Store kits in a readily accessible, cool place, away from light. Refrigerators are best. Check the syringe periodically and discard it if the solution has turned brown. Replace the filled syringe at least once every year.

Having a kit on hand and knowing how to use it is important, but avoiding stings in the first place is even better. Most allergic reactions to stings are caused by the hymenoptera variety of insect — bees, wasps, hornets, yellow jackets and fire ants, which presently live only in the southeastern U.S.

Other kinds of insects, such as black flies, also can cause allergic reactions in some people. By reading about the habitats and individual traits of these insects, allergic persons can learn how to avoid them or, if need be, how to identify the attacker, should a sting occur.

Other precautions afford additional protection to the allergic person. A Medic Alert tag is invaluable when worn by a person who has fainted during a reaction. These tags, available from pharmacies and many local stores, explain that the wearer has an allergy to certain insect venom and needs prompt treatment.

Carrying a pocket-sized epinephrine inhaler is a good idea, too. It could help in reducing swelling of the throat, which may occur during a reaction.

Outlook good for beach maintenance programs

By JUNE M. HEYDT

The executive director of Gulf Regional Planning Commission told the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Thursday no documents exist at the Mobile District Corps of Engineers office assigning responsibility for beach maintenance to Hancock County.

A. A. Dolph Kellar, supervisor president, reported at a previous board meeting the county is not eligible for federal funds because of an earlier agreement to maintain the beach.

Head said that misconception was based on a Corps attorney's opinion. Head said Thursday since no proof of such an agreement by the county can be found, the county is, in fact, eligible for federal aid in maintaining the beach.

Head asked for and received the county's permission for Gulf Regional to work toward the development of a comprehensive plan for capital investment in the beach, beach road and other prescriptive areas for economic development.

A resolution was passed requesting the Corps' Mobile District to resume studies of shoreline erosion in Hancock County authorized by Senate resolutions.

The study area would include shoreline erosion between the US-90 auto bridge and Bayou Cadet.

The board also concurred in another resolution presented by Gulf Regional on creation of a coastal streams basin master plan of development.

Gulf Regional is urging governing bodies in Jackson, Harrison and Hancock counties to join with state and federal agencies as well as the Federal Congress to develop "...the most effective, efficient and economic use of the endowments of the coastal streams water-sheds for the good of current and future generations."

Also at Thursday's meeting, the board heard a letter from the Hancock County Farm Bureau to the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources opposing state leasing of inland waters in Hancock County for oil and gas exploration and production.

The letter stated the bureau is not opposing the lease for environmental reasons but because the boundaries of ownership of coastal lands has not been established.

The Farm Bureau does feel the burden of proof of ownership should not be placed on property owners of Hancock County.

The bureau letter noted if the state leases these disputed properties small landowners will have to fight the state and the oil companies in order to keep property that in many cases belonged to families for more than 100 years.

"The Hancock County Farm Bureau will welcome the oil and gas production under state waters and land if and when a proper land survey has been made by the State of Mississippi and accepted by the coast property owners," the letter concludes.

Walter Gex, board attorney, then read a resolution by the board of supervisors concerning 'wetlands' in the southern portion of Hancock County the state is claiming for mineral lease purposes.

The resolution reads, in part, that the board of supervisors urges the state not to lease any land for exploration or recovery of oil, gas and other minerals upon which either taxes are currently being collected or upon which taxes have been paid in the past.

In another resolution adopted Thursday, the board authorized application for a small cities community development jobs bill block grant.

Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District will assist the county in preparation of the application.

Also Thursday, the board approved a request from Roger Dale Ladner, District Three supervisor, to reduce the speed limit on Diamondhead Drive be reduced from 35 mph to 30 mph because of accidents on the road.

He also requested signs be erected posting the new speed limit.

The board is scheduled to meet again Monday at 9 a.m. and conduct a public hearing on Revenue Sharing at 10 a.m.

Ole Miss lists Honorees

Full-time students named to the University of Mississippi Chancellor's Honor Roll for the spring semester earned a grade point average from 3.75 through 4.0 carrying at least 12 semester hours.

Honor roll members include Neil W. White III, Gulfport; Leslie A. Staehle and Melissa A. Treutel, both of Bay St. Louis; and Kenneth P. Hunt and Shelly V. Stewart, both of Pass Christian.

DEAN'S LIST

Named to the Ole Miss Dean's Honor Roll for the spring semester, with grade point averages from 3.5 through 3.74 carrying at least 12 semester hours are Elizabeth M. Holmes and John R. Santa Cruz, both of Bay St. Louis.

Graduate requirements liberalized

Students applying for the master's and specialist's degree programs in the University of Southern Mississippi's College of Education and Psychology now have the option of submitting test scores from one of three tests along with a minimum grade point average.

The College has changed its graduate admission requirements to permit the use of the Graduate Record Examination, the Miller Analogies test, or the National Teacher Exam.

"We have made these changes to accommodate those people who have had one of the tests to prevent them from having to take another similar test," said Dr. Gary Rush, assistant dean of the college.

He said a survey of colleges in the Southeast showed that this option is now offered widely.

Scores required for master's degree programs include a grade point average of 2.75 (on a 4.0 scale) and scores of 750 on the verbal and quantitative sections of the GRE.

1100 on the common and area examinations of the NTE and 30 on the Miller Analogies.

Specialist's degree programs require a 3.25 grade point on graduate work and scores of 800 on the GRE, 1150 on the NTE and 35 on the Miller test.

The requirements apply to those applying for admission in the following programs: adult education, business education, early childhood education, educational administration and supervision, educational media and technology, elementary education, industrial and vocational education, reading, research and evaluation, special education and secondary education.

The requirements for admission to the college's doctoral programs have not been changed. They are a 3.50 on graduate work and a 900 or above on the GRE.

IN OVER 20 YEARS

—A PROVEN LEADER — MAKES THINGS HAPPEN

As a Hancock County Dairyman, Breau's business suffered severe damages by Hurricane Camille, yet he was able to rebuild and be named Hancock County's Outstanding Farmer in 1971.

When Breau was hired by the Board of Directors to manage the Gulf Coast Dairyman's Association in Gulfport, membership moral was low, and the company on the verge of closing because of prior poor management, also deep in debt.

Under Breau's management, it wasn't but a short time before moral was up and a tremendous amount of new members joined the organization.

In a short time, the Gulf Coast Dairyman's Association purchased a plot of land, constructed a new office building, and a Grade A Milk Transfer Station under Breau's leadership.

The company was able to market milk as far away as Tampa, Florida, not only from coastal dairymen, but also from the states of Louisiana and Alabama, in addition to the whole state of Mississippi. In only three years the local company was doing some $8,000,000 annually under Breau's leadership, and out of debt.

Under Breau's management, the Gulf Coast Dairyman's Association became one of the nation's most respected small co-ops. Breau even testified before Congressional Committees in Washington, D.C. on behalf of dairymen.

Breau managed the co-op for eight years. Today it is still one of the nation's most progressive, continuing to grow from the strong foundation of leadership and sense of direction given by Breau.

Breau's leadership was recognized by the Marketing and Economic experts of Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama, and he became a charter member of the Mississippi Agricultural Economic Association.

Reappraisal program moving towards completion

By J. NEM. HEYDT

Edward D. Murtagh Jr. presented an updated report on the reappraisal for Hancock County to the Board of Supervisors Thursday morning at its regular meeting.

Murtagh said the reappraisal program is in such a position that it will no longer hinder progress of the reappraisal program. Supplemental maps are available. All maps will be completed by February.

The reappraisal program is moving right along with the 1984 completion date in mind, Murtagh said.

The lack of funds for the project has been a problem, Murtagh said. Murtagh said the reappraisal is being made in the most efficient manner possible. The cost of the reappraisal is estimated to be $150,000.

Murtagh said one of the important things that they are doing in this appraisal is trying to get the equity the same for the same type of house. This means that if a person owns a house and it was built around the same year, is the same size and in the same condition as another, then their appraisals should be about the same.

Murtagh said they have had to hire some outside personnel but that they are training in house people to do these jobs. The outside help is just on a short term basis.

Also in the reappraisal will be reports on land use values. Which means the county will use aerial photographs of the soil areas and appraise what the value of the land would be if it were cultivated, said Murtagh.

Murtagh said, "The present price on re-appraisal is $35 per parcel. We have at present 50,000 parcels. That comes to $1,750,000. Our program will cost a great deal less than that."

Also in the reappraisal will be reports on land use values. Which means the county will use aerial photographs of the soil areas and appraise what the value of the land would be if it were cultivated, said Murtagh.

Murtagh said, "The present price on re-appraisal is $35 per parcel. We have at present 50,000 parcels. That comes to $1,750,000. Our program will cost a great deal less than that."

TRAVELING IN TIME—The Doctor's amazing time capsule, the TARDIS, is on the platform of Cranleigh Halt, a small railway station in the heart of the English countryside, and the Doctor and his traveling companions are caught up in an unusual adventure in 1925 England. "Black Orchid," the next new "Doctor Who" story, a departure in production style for the 20-year-old science fiction series, can be seen at 7 p.m., Saturday, July 23, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Left to right, the Doctor (Peter Davison), Myra (Sarah Sutton), Tegan (Janet Fielding), and Adric (Matthew Waterhouse) don costumes provided by their host and prepare for a lavish masquerade ball at nearby Dalton Hall, but, as usual, something wicked lurks in the shadows, and—good thing for the universe—the Doctor is there to drag it out into the light. In addition to the all-new "Doctor Who" movies starring Peter Davison on Saturday nights, the "Doctor Who" episodes starring Tom Baker as the Doctor continue to be rebroadcast at 6 p.m., weekdays, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Strahan eyes District 106 representative's slot

BUSTER STRAHAN

J. H. (Buster) Strahan of Poplarville has announced his candidacy for state representative, District 106.

"Buster Strahan fights for the rights of the people," is the campaign slogan, he said.

"Although this is my first involvement in any kind of politics, I have long been active in community and civic affairs in my area."

I helped organize the Mississippi Landowners Association, the Pearl River

County Development Association, and the various volunteer fire departments in our county.

"I have served as volunteer Civil Defense Director and served as a member of the Pearl River County Advisory Committee of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center. To know what a person will be interested in during the future, you must know what his past interests were."

"If elected, I will continue to be interested in economic development, agricultural needs, mental health, education and other areas of vital concern to our people," Strahan continued.

"Currently, I am very interested in the return of mineral rights to the taxpaying landowners, which is why I am now a candidate for representative. This is your fight as well as mine, so people, get involved!"

"This race could be the beginning of a political time bomb in Mississippi. A landslide victory by me in the first primary would send a strong message to every state politician, since every candidate in the state would gladly climb on this bandwagon if he or she saw this was a sure way to get elected. This movement is people helping people and this is what we need right now," the candidate continued.

"Let's all rally to the cause and get out and vote. Thank you, and may God bless each and every one!"

Strahan and his wife Margie have two sons, Jimmy and Jack; and two daughters, Barbara Jean Anthaume and Johnnie Sue Stewart.

District 106 includes the Hancock County Precincts of Crane Creek, Flat Top, Leetown and Standard.

Mississippi VICA competitors reach new national high

Students from Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinson Campus, including Patricia Faciane of Bay St. Louis, placed second in the nation at the Recent National Vocational Industrial Clubs of America Skill Olympics in Louisville, Ky.

Taking second place honor in the opening and closing ceremony were Kerry O'Neal and Glenda Sumrall, both of Benndale; Lee Hancock, Lucedale; Marc Jones and Greg Van Court, both of Ocean Springs; Debra Taylor, Saucier.

Jones also came in fourth in machine drafting. VICA sponsor Ronnie Walker said, "Opening and closing ceremony is one of the toughest. Each team member is judged individually and then the team as a whole is judged."

Howard L. Ladner Jr. campaigning in District 106

Howard L. Ladner Jr. of Poplarville reports he is seeking election as state representative from District 106.

Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone county precincts are included in District 106.

Ladner is a native and resident of the Steep Hollow Community in Pearl River County. "I graduated from Poplarville High in 1966 and Pearl River Junior College in 1969. I am married to the former Nancy Spiers, the daughter of Charlie and Olan Spiers of the Necaise Crossing Community in Hancock County," Ladner said.

"I am the son of Coyce Smith and the late Howard Levert Ladner. I am a member of Steep Hollow Baptist Church where I serve as deacon. I am a member of the Sherrard Byrd Lodge No. 353, F&AM."

"I along with many people in south Mississippi have felt that we needed a change in our state government for many years. The quality of life in our area has continually fallen over the past years. We the people have been loyal to our politicians by repeatedly sending them back to Jackson thinking that experience was what they needed, but as the facts will bear out our loyalty has been misplaced. We the people have been used and abused to the point of breaking. We as a state have no other recourse but to change and this change has to start with the politicians who set this states declining course."

"I don't have to tell you people what's wrong, you already know. Education, industry and taxes are just a few. Many people have asked me why I choose to enter this political race? I have talked about the politics of this state in the past, but now I have adopted a new philosophy."

"This I Believe": In the battle of life it is not the critic who counts, not the man who points out how the "strong man" stumbled or the doer of the deed could have done better," Ladner said.

"The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood, who strives valiantly, who errs and comes short again because there is no effort without error and shortcomings; who does actually strive

Allstate invests in county bonds

The Allstate Insurance Group has invested more than $390,000 in bonds in Hancock County, according to Charles J. Amis, the company's regional vice president for Mississippi.

Hancock County investments are part of more than $17 million in bonds held by Allstate in 15 counties in the state.

The company's investments in Hancock County include issues by Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate Schools.

Other Allstate investments in the state have helped build housing, school facilities and sewage systems.

"It continues to be Allstate's policy to support the development of areas in which we do business by investing in local communities," Amis said. "We are a corporate citizen in each of the communities in which our offices are located. Like all citizens, we will share in the progress of these communities."

Other Mississippi counties in which Allstate has invested in bond issues are Alcorn, Copiah, DeSoto, Harrison, Hinds, Jackson, Lamar, Lauderdale, Lee, Marshall, Monroe, Prentiss, Warren and Yazoo.

Marshall Lusk campaigns in Bay

Marshall Lusk, Democratic candidate for state attorney general was in Bay St. Louis Tuesday campaigning.

Lusk has been emphasizing his experience in the attorney general's office and his involvement in the battles against unreasonable utility rate hikes during his campaigning.

He has served on the staffs of two attorneys general and is a native of Aberdeen and an accounting graduate of Mississippi State University.

"I distinguish my candidacy in other ways also," Lusk said Tuesday. "I am the only candidate in the race who is committed to fighting phone and utility rate hikes and pledge to serve this full term that I seek."

"Two of the candidates in this race are ambitious to be governor and they have become perennial office seekers who don't serve the terms the people elect them to but resign or immediately begin politicking for higher office," Lusk stated.

The office of attorney general was created by the people, for the people, and not for the satisfaction of any one person's political ambitions."

"I pledge, if elected, to serve the people of this state and not to serve any selfish political ambitions," Lusk pledged.

"Lusk also announced the appointment of Alex Damalas of Harrison County as his Gulf Coast campaign coordinator.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS EDWARD PRENDERGAST JR.

Evening ceremony unites Prendergast, Ready

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the June 17 evening wedding of Shirley Jean Ready and Louis Edward Prendergast Jr., both of Bay St. Louis.

The bride is a daughter of Jo Ready of Picayune and Edward Ready of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mrs. Madeline Prendergast of Bay St. Louis and the late Louis Edward Prendergast.

Rev. Francis Farrell officiated at the 7:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. John McKenna, organist, and Darlene Lee, vocalist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of sheer chiffon and re-embroidered lace over bridal taffeta, fashioned with Queen Anne neckline, fitted bodice adorned with re-embroidered lace embellished with seed pearls and iridescent, and sheer princess sleeves with deep fitted cuffs ending in Calla points. The full bouffant skirt and cathedral train were embellished with rows of baby doll ruffles and handclipped, re-embroidered lace. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion deeply bordered with matching lace and held in place by a Juliet caplet of lace and pearls, and carried a cascade of silk rosebuds and baby's breath.

Jo Ellen Ready of Picayune attended her sister as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Tammy Eagen, cousin of the groom; Donna Debow and Marilyn Ready, sisters of the bride, all of Bay St. Louis and Lisa Ready, sister of the bride, of Picayune.

Miss Dee Debow of Bay St. Louis, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in floor length gowns of blue and white dotted swiss featuring off-the-shoulder styling accented with satin ribbon tied in bows on the shoulders. They carried nosegays of pink and white silk roses with baby's breath and satin streamers. The honor attendant's bouquet was similar in design with pink, blue and white silk roses.

The flower girl carried a white lace basket of silk rose petals.

Ms. Ready chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of lavender chiffon over satin fashioned with fitted waistline and long, sheer sleeves. An orchid wristlet corsage completed her ensemble.

The mother of the groom was attired in a floor length gown of wine crepe featuring a pleated skirt and lace bodice overlay with a white carnation corsage.

A reception followed at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Bay St. Louis.

Ms. Rhonda Cummings kept the guest register and the wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Les Moran.

The couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Boshell, Shortle wed at Christ Episcopal

The marriage of Miss Harra Dickson Shortle and Allan Thomas Boshell was solemnized June 25 at Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Adoree Junqua Shortle and Harris Dickson Shortle of New Orleans and Bay St. Louis, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce T. Boshell of Birmingham and Odenton, Md.

The Rev. Charles Johnson officiated at the 7 p.m. ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Robert L. Shortle of New Orleans. She wore a full-length gown of candlelight brocade and satin in a Renaissance design. The floor-length veil of illusion was held to her head with a band of satin and Alencon lace.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Ray Turan of Gulfport, and Mrs. John Dedman of Little Rock, Ark.

The bride's nieces, Heather Dedman and Sumner Turan, were flower girls. The groom's nephew Master John Adam, was ringbearer.

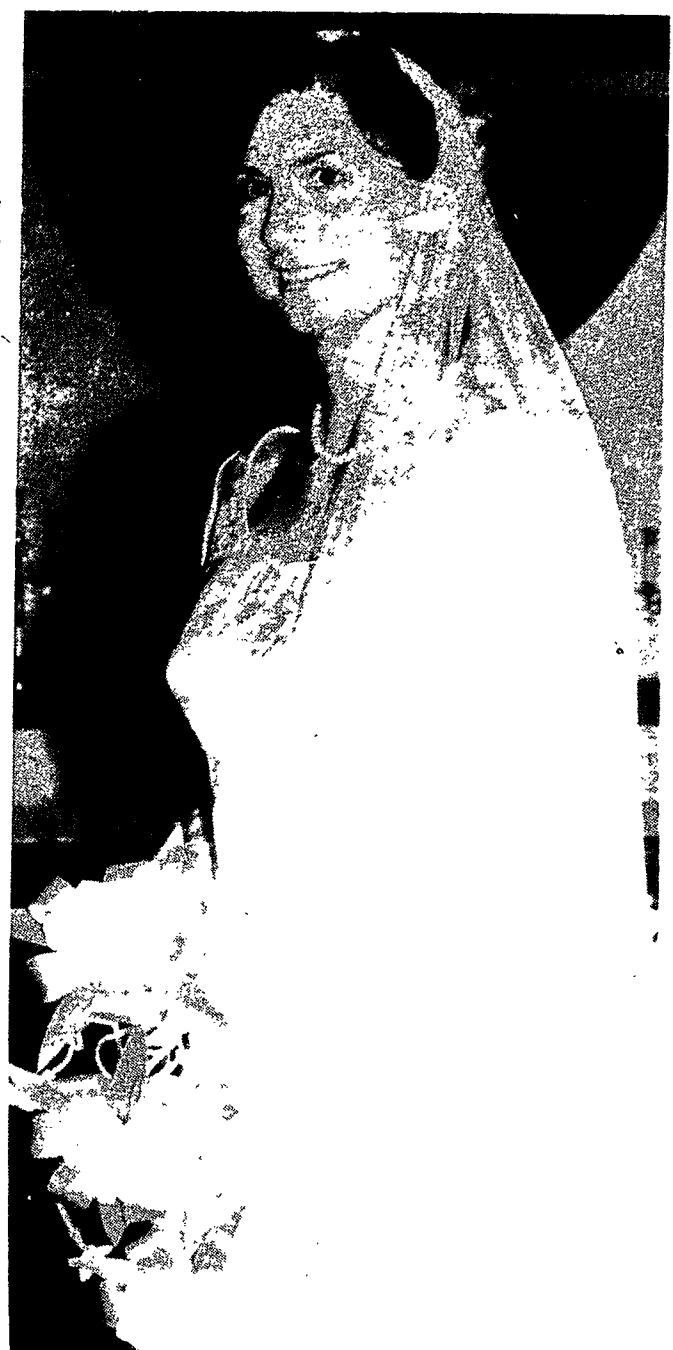

Coy Autry of Birmingham, Ala. was best man.

The bride attended the Academy of the Sacred Heart and Loyola University in New Orleans. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Raymond Junqua of New Orleans and the late Mr. Junqua, and Mrs.

Elizabeth Dickson Shortle of Natchez, Ms., and Robert Shortle of New Orleans.

The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Alabama at Birmingham with a master's degree in health care administration. He served his residency at Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans and is now assistant administrator of the Highland Clinic in Shreveport, La. He is the grandson of Mrs. Thomas E. Boshell and the late Mr. Boshell, and Mrs. Louis Brookins and the late Mr. Brookins, all of Birmingham.

Following a honeymoon in Mexico the couple will be at home in Shreveport.

MRS. ALLAN THOMAS BOSHELL

Necaise, Reeder exchange vows

Cynthia Jane Reeder and Keith Andre' Necaise, both of Gulfport, were married June 25 in a 1 p.m. ceremony at the Bay St. Louis home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michel Joseph Necaise Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Reeder Sr. of Baltimore, Md.

Rev. George Abrams officiated at the double ring ceremony before a bridal arch covered with pink, white and yellow roses. Potted palms flanked the arch and fresh and silk flower arrangements decorated throughout the home.

The bride was given in marriage by a friend, Alan Jordan, and wore a floor-length gown of white pleated voile featuring front and back yokes of illusion net accented with bands of ruffled venise lace and satin ribbon. Bishop sleeves ended in fitted cuffs closed with pearl buttons and a floor-length satin sash encircled the waistline. She carried a cascade of white roses interspersed with rose colored stephanotis, lily-of-the-valley and lace streamers, and wore a matching headpiece of miniature white roses and baby's breath.

Ginger Turcotte, sister of the groom, of Bay St. Louis, was matron of honor.

David Turcotte, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony on the adjoining lawn of the couple's attendants, Mr. and Mrs. David Turcotte.

The three-tiered wedding cake was made by the groom's sisters, Mrs. Connie Oglesby and Mrs. Ginger Turcotte.

Assisting at the reception were Walter Turcotte of Waveland; Mrs. F. D. Wimpee of Gulfport, Mrs. Necohl Necaise and Mrs. Delbert Necaise of Kiln.

On return from a wedding trip to Baltimore, Md., the couple will reside in Gulfport.

MR. AND MRS. KEITH ANDRE' NECAISE

Stewart, Trombley vows announced

Martha Lynn Trombley of Bay St. Louis and Charles Funston Stewart of Waveland, were married Sunday, July 3, in an early evening ceremony in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Larry Stewart of Waveland. The bride is the daughter of Mr. David Trombley of New Orleans, La., and Mrs. Fran Kersanac of Bay St. Louis.

Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. William Ford.

A reception in the home of the groom's family followed the ceremony. The couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Benvenuti of Bay St. Louis announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Rebecca Benvenuti, to Brian Robert Milner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Joseph Milner of Dickinson, Tex.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Cornelia Benvenuti of Bay St. Louis and the late Joseph N. Benvenuti and Mrs. Mary Taylor Shourds of Gulfport and the late Dalton Bacon Shourds.

She is a graduate of Our Lady's Academy High School and the University of Mississippi. She received a bachelor of arts degree in journalism and English from Ole Miss where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Lambda Sigma honorary, Public Relations Student Society of America, Kappa Tau Alpha journalism honorary, Ole Miss Ambassadors, Women in Communications, and Kappa Alpha Little Sisters.

She is employed in the Public Information Department with Mississippi Power Company in Gulfport.

The prospective groom is the grandson of Mrs. Abbie Milner of Denver, Colo., and the late Robert Milner and Mrs. Kathryn Joeherm of St. Cloud, Minn., and the late Joseph A. Joeherm.

He is a graduate of St. Stanislaus High School and the University of Houston. He is employed with Gulf Shore Electric Company in Houston, Tex.

The couple will be married at 2 p.m. on Saturday, July 30, at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis.

MARY REBECCA BENVENUTTI

Benvenuti, Milner plan July 30 wedding

First Baptist vows join Bell, Necaise

Scherell Lynn Necaise became the bride of Jeff D. Bell in an afternoon ceremony June 25 at First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis James Necaise of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bell of Forest, Ms.

Rev. Nathan Barber officiated at the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of white silk roses, mauve blossoms and fern.

Musical selections were provided by organist Mrs. Jean Smith and vocalists Mark Smith and Darlene Bilbo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown fashioned with a venise lace basque flowing into a cathedral train of bridal crepe over taffeta. The bodice was embellished with seed pearls and iridescent sequins around the sweetheart neckline and on the bishop sleeves which ended in tapered lace edging. Scalloped lace bordered the front of the bouffant skirt and swept to a cascading train of tiers of lace and crepe embroidered with lace medallions. Her bridal hat of stiffened tulle featured rows of pleated chantilly lace on the crown and brim. Veiling of illusion was caught up in a bow attached to the back of the hat with silk fleurettes.

She carried a cascade of white silk roses, cymbidium orchids, mauve apple blossoms, baby's breath and seed pearls.

Lori Bell, sister-in-law of the groom, of Forest, Miss., was matron of honor. Dee-Dee Ladner of Bay St. Louis was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Karen Nayard and Kim DeHaan of Waveland; Melissa Henley, a cousin, of Bay St. Louis; and Linda Williamson of Forest.

They wore floor length gowns of mauve qiana with Victorian neckline, sheer lace insert and soft ruffle around the shoulders. They carried cascades of silk cymbidium orchids accented with mauve apple blossoms and fern, and wore headpieces of matching flowers.

Misses Jessica Cranmer of Biloxi and Wendy Williamson of Forest were flower girls.

Ferrell Williamson of Forest was best man.

Groomsman were Louis J. Necaise Jr., Dwayne Necaise and Scott Necaise of Bay St. Louis, brothers of the groom; Richard Bell, brother of the bride, Joe Dean Mixon, nephew of the groom, and Jimmy Wayne Harriel, all of Forest.

Ushers were Eric Henley of Bay St. Louis, uncle of the bride, and Tony Moss of Carthage, Miss.

David Green of Biloxi was ring bearer.

A reception followed at Patio St. Louis, where Mrs. Elaine LaFontaine and Mrs. Aline LaFontaine, Mrs. Loraine Rapp, godmother of the bride from Orlando, Fla., assisted.

The couple will reside in Forest.

MRS. JEFF D. BELL

RECENTLY WED—Carol Ann Dunklin recently became the bride of Carl Bernard Rogers at the Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church, Waveland. The bride is the daughter of Willie D. Dunklin of Bay St. Louis and the late Mrs. Dunklin. The groom is the son of Ora Lee Rogers of Inkster, Mich. and the late Paul Rogers. Rev. Lee Morris performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her brother Louis Dunklin. Tiffany Dailey was flower girl and other attendants were, Lisa Dunklin, Debra Dailey and Cheryl Dailey. The groom's attendants were Calvin Smith, Manfred Moses and Terry Breland. A reception was held at the bride's home in Bay St. Louis.

Bay Legion Juniors to install officers

The American Legion Junior Auxiliary Unit 139 of Bay St. Louis will install officers Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Home on Green Meadow Road.

All Junior members, their parents, and all senior members are invited. Marius Ladner, department president, will serve as installing officer.

Installed will be Connie Moran, president; Penny Boudin, secretary; Melissa Moran, treasurer; and Patsy Travirca, chaplain.

After the installation they will serve punch and cake to their guests.

They will also have on display the awards they won at the Department Convention.

The Juniors will start their membership drive at this meeting and dues will be collected.

There will be a membership contest again this year.

Mrs. Beth Burleson, junior activities chairman, will give the information and rules at this meeting.

BPW PRESIDENT—Mrs. Vickie Powell of Bay St. Louis is the 1983-1984 president of the Bay-Waveland Chapter, Business and Professional Women. A dispatcher for South Central Bell in Gulfport, Powell is also recording secretary for BPW's Mississippi District One which includes Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River counties. Other officers of the Bay-Waveland Chapter include Pam Baumgartner, vice president; Pat Viguerie, recording secretary; and Barbara Jo Fitch, treasurer. The group meets every other Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Resort Inn, Waveland. For information call Powell at 467-1308.

THE AUSTRALIAN INVASION

Down Under is definitely coming up!

By that I mean, Australia is now a major contributor of quality films in the international movie trade.

It used to be that talented Australians would migrate to another country and develop their artistry. Now, more and more Australians are staying at home and exporting their unique talent and vision. It's time to be an Aussie.

And, although major Hollywood studios have successfully signed some of the kangaroo continent's biggest stars and directors, one can only hope that these artists retain the sensitivity, characteristics and innocence that catapulted them to fame in the first place.

Following is a brief listing of some of the actors, actresses and directors who have helped put Australia on the celluloid map, as it were.

Mel Gibson is Australia's biggest international star. His work in "Gallipoli," "Mad Max," "The Road Warrior" and, most importantly, "The Year of Living Dangerously" was consistently good.

In all these films Gibson has displayed a boyish charm combined with a roguish attitude that has found universal appeal. His next film project will be a remake of the classic film, "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Bryan Brown, who is currently featured in "A Town Like Alice" (Sundays on ETV, Ch. 12 at 9 p.m.), has also found success in the widely acclaimed "Breaker Morant," "Winter of our Dreams," and ABC's "The Thorn Birds." To show his diversity, Brown's next project will be a film with former Beatle, Paul McCartney.

Brown recently married Rachel Ward, the beautiful ingenue discovered by Burt Reynolds for "Shogun's Machine," and later featured in Carl Reiner's "Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid" and "The Thorn Birds," where she met Brown.

Judy Davis, who co-stars with Brown in "Winter of our Dreams," received notice for her strong characterization in Gilliam Armstrong's "My Brilliant Career." And although Armstrong's film was good, it was Davis' brilliant performance that far overshadowed the material.

Following the enormous commercial success of "Breaker Morant," Director Bruce Beresford was wooed by Robert Duvall to work on "Tender Mercies." Thankfully so because Beresford's close attention to detail pays off in one of 1983's best movies.

George Miller edited "Mad Max" on his kitchen table in Australia. It went on to be one of the biggest international movies ever released by that country.

The sequel, "The Road Warrior" (both starring Mel Gibson), was one of the best action films of last summer.

The high-speed stunts were beyond belief. In recognition of these fine films, Miller was given one of the four episodes contained in the current Steven Spielberg production, "The Twilight Zone." Incidentally, critics have hailed Miller's portion of the film as the highlight.

Peter Weir is probably Australia's best known director. His initial success was with "Picnic at Hanging Rock," an oddly suspenseful yarn about a girl's school on a picnic outing. His reputation grew with "Gallipoli," a beautiful retort against the horrors of war, and was solidified with this year's "The Year of Living Dangerously" (again, with Mel Gibson), in which he cast a woman in a man's role. Weir's films are all period pieces and all are pleasing to look at.

Gilliam Armstrong's "My Brilliant Career" found a home on Educational Television and her current "Star Struck" will be at the Prytania Theatre in New Orleans July 15-28. She has shown promise and intelligence in her films, attributes that are very hard to come by.

With the films and stars listed above I believe I could spend days in a movie theater. Even if it was in the Out Back.

Thanks to you...

it works...

ETV Brief

FEMALE VET

With the arrival of World War II and a female veterinarian, life may never be the same at Skeldale House.

Thus begins the concluding episode of "All Creatures Great and Small" at 8 p.m., Sunday, July 24, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Based on the book by James Herriot recounting his experiences as a Yorkshire Dales veterinarian in the 1930s, the series draws to a close with a surprise for Mrs. Hall (Mary Hignett), the housekeeper; military service in the RAF for Siegfried and James (Robert Hardy and Christopher Timothy); a stiff upper lip for Helen (Carol Drinkwater); and no more lampshades on the head for Tristan (Peter Davison). A female veterinarian from Poland arrives to help out, and a new era begins.

Robert Hardy portrayed Winston Churchill recently on "Masterpiece Theatre," Carol Drinkwater has appeared on "Mystery" episodes, and Peter Davison can be seen as the Doctor on "Doctor Who" at 7 p.m., Saturdays, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

TIMBERLINE

By David Watts
Hancock County Forester

Fast vs Slow Growth

Trees can generally be classified into slow growing and fast growing groups. The slower growing trees are generally longer lived, stronger and more desirable shade trees than the faster growing trees.

The slower growing trees include most of the oaks, hickories, magnolias and beeches. The faster growing group includes cottonwood, willow, sycamore, maples and pines.

A good approach to planting trees, especially on open lots, is to plant a combination of slower growing and faster growing trees. The faster trees shoot up giving quick shade. Then, as the longer lived trees reach a reasonable size, the fast growing trees can be removed.

It is a good idea to remove them one at a time over a period of five to ten years. They should be removed before they become too large and thus expensive to remove.

When planting any tree, remember to project the ultimate size of the tree. All trees generally grow faster than we expect. Leave plenty of room around houses, drives and walks and remember to look up for power lines. Don't plant trees too close together. Close growing trees adversely affect each other's form.

The average residential lot is too small for very large trees, but try to leave 20 to 30 feet between the house and trees and 20 to 15 feet between trees and drives or walks.

Interplanting fast and slow growing species approximately 15 to 20 feet apart is optimum. Then when the fast growing species are removed, the slower growing species will be spaced about right, 30 to 40 feet apart.

Help for Gardeners

The spring of 1983 was one of the worst in recent times for home gardens. Record-breaking amounts of rain and unseasonable late cold delayed planting and destroyed many gardens.

This is the year to have a big late-summer and fall garden to make up for all that didn't get planted or that was lost. Plan now for the vegetables you want to plant. Planting dates are in the Garden Tabloid, available free at the Extension office.

Vegetables you can plant in late summer include summer squash, bush snap beans, lima beans, southern peas and cucumbers. You also can set out tomatoes, eggplant and peppers, if plants are available.

Some vegetables normally planted in spring won't do well in late summer and fall gardens. These include sweet corn, bulb onions, watermelons, muskmelons and peanuts. English peas are risky, but might be worth a try. Irish potatoes can be grown, but it's hard to find seed potatoes that will sprout.

If you're one of the lucky ones who has vegetables now, harvest them regularly to avoid losses. Keep spraying to control insects and diseases and keep grasses and weeds under control.

Recommendations on controlling insects and diseases and other practices are given in the Garden Tabloid.

Stop Sickledrop

Sickledrop, also called coffee-weed, is a serious weed problem in soybeans throughout south Mississippi and is quickly spreading to other parts of the state as well.

It potentially is a problem in Hancock County.

The weeds, which often get six to seven feet tall, can reduce soybean yields even in low numbers when allowed to compete longer than the first four weeks after soybeans emerge. Yield reductions of 11, 23 and 46 percent have been reported from one, two and three sickledrop plants per foot of row.

In research tests, the largest yield losses came from sickledrop planted six to 12 inches from the soybean row, compared to those planted directly in the row. This suggests that soybean shade is effective in holding back sickledrop.

Attempts to control sickledrop through cultivation alone usually have failed. While there are no fool proof control recommendations, a system of cultural and chemical procedures combined with good management can be made to work.

Tow Rope Safety

The 1 inch to 1.5 inch ropes which have become popular on farms as tow ropes also can be deadly if they are not used correctly.

Officials estimate as many as 30 farmers across the country have died as a result of tow rope accidents and at least as many more have suffered disabling injuries. Many others can tell of close calls.

The ropes have a breaking load of 30,000 to 60,000 pounds, far more than a tractor or most other towing equipment can develop. The ropes themselves seldom fail. The problem is that the clevises, hooks and chains they are fastened to sometimes do.

Unlike a cable or chain, tow ropes stretch. Farmers may be tempted, or even instructed, to use the tractor's momentum for more pulling power. The extra load may be enough to spread a clevis or tear off a truck bumper.

The real danger happens after the rope breaks. The tow rope, which may be stretched up to 40 percent or more of its original length, snaps back, hurling whatever it is hooked to at speeds up to 700 miles an hour.

That happened in a Nebraska farm accident. A farmer was pulling out a stuck tractor when the chain used to hook the rope broke, throwing a piece of chain through the tractor cab and killing the farmer.

Tow ropes have become too popular for farmers to stop using them. So, it's important that farmers use the pulling devices safely.

Safety Depends on You
Farming is a big investment in time, effort and money. A good harvest depends on your farming skills, resources and, of course, cooperation from mother nature.

Whether your farm is free from costly and tragic mishaps depends in part on how well you prepare your equipment and how safely you and your operators run that equipment.

THE ART OF STORYTELLING

Whether you'd just like to entertain the family with an enchanting story told around a glowing campfire or whether you want to captivate an audience that's actually willing to pay to hear you weave a tale, here are some helpful hints from veteran storyteller David Holt. . . tips that'll improve your ability to pursue the ancient and magical art of storytelling.

The first thing to do if you hope to become an honest-to-gosh fantasy-maker, of course, is to choose a tale to tell, and the best way to select a story to share is to find one you really like. David says this should be easy . . . because stories are everywhere. In fact, great tales can be shaped from the reminiscences of old times, conversations with friends, or stories remembered from childhood. You local library is also a fine source of folktale, history, and science fiction books that can provide you with an abundance of good material.

When you're just beginning, it's best to pick a narrative that has an easy-to-follow sequence. To learn the tale, read it over a few times . . . then put the book down and tell the tale to yourself. If you don't feel clear about a certain section after the trial run, go back to the book. Another technique that can be helpful when learning a story is to make a tape of yourself reading it aloud. Then you can listen to it whenever you have a few minutes. Holt doesn't enjoy strict memorization, though, since he likes to ad-lib . . . but there are certain parts of the story that will need to be committed to memory: the beginning, any key lines, and the ending.

If you've memorized the first few sentences of a story, you can get up before a group with confidence, because you'll know exactly how you're going to start. Then again, the end of a story is like the punch line of a joke. You need to know it and know how to deliver it. A weak conclusion can ruin an entire tale, but a strong closing will leave people with the feeling that the story had power.

When you're before a critical audience, don't worry about being nervous. Just plunge in and start telling! Most of your anxiety will subside after you've presented the tale often enough to really know it. (Besides, even a professional like Holt finds that a little nervousness is essential, because it gives a story a special effectiveness.)

Movements of the hands and the body can be used to enliven some tales . . . particularly those stories with a lot of excitement. The only gestures you'll want to avoid are those that call attention to you (such as biting your fingernails or lips, pulling at your hair, or nervously kicking your leg).

Nothing will extinguish an audience's interest more quickly than a monotonous delivery, so take a tip from the "rise and fall" technique of disk jockeys and television announcers to put variety in your voice. And, of course, you should be careful to talk loud enough so the people on the back row can hear you, to speak clearly, and not to talk too fast. Direct eye contact with responsive individuals in the audience helps you communicate well, too.

So when it's your turn to tell a story, take over the "stage" with confidence and go to it. After all, the more storytelling you do, the better you'll get, the more fun you'll have, and the more enjoyment you'll give.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

BECOMING A LANDLORD

QUESTION: I am considering purchasing a small apartment building close to where I live and would appreciate your giving me some points on the best way to manage the building. M. W. McComb

ANSWER: Dear M. W.: As you are giving thought to buying some rental property and becoming a landlord, here are some points to ponder.

The success of an investment in real estate depends in large part on how successfully it is managed. As you know, real estate is entirely different than other types of investments such as putting your dollars into stocks or bonds.

Thus, the skills necessary to manage real estate become most important. Skills you need to be a good manager include: marketing, leasing, tenant relations, maintenance, insurance, record keeping and asset management.

The higher the level of these skills you possess, the more successful your real estate investment, and thus the return on your investment, will be.

According to a survey by the Texas Real Estate Research Center, the most common mistakes made by inexperienced property managers are: 1) allowing the relationship between manager/owner and tenant to evolve from a business arrangement to a personal friendship and 2) not having sufficient communication with tenants.

Other mistakes highlighted in the survey included a lack of objective and responsive management techniques and improper leasing practices. If, after assessing your management skills, you feel that you are somewhat lacking, you should consider the employment of a trained property manager. Professional managers stress effective leasing procedures as the key to a successful rental project and since each property has unique features that require both knowledge and expertise, a trained professional may be the answer.

FNMA MORTGAGE

QUESTION: In attempting to sell our existing home, we have advertised the mortgage as "assumable," which it is. However, the lender says it can only be assumed at a higher rate. The existing rate is 10.5 percent. Is it at all possible to do B. J. K...?

ANSWER: Home sellers like you will find low interest rate mortgage loans often find that the loan can be a major selling point. If the buyer can assume the loan, a sale is much more likely. Certainly your existing eight percent loan is well below what a buyer could acquire with a new mortgage.

Lenders, however, often exaltate the old interest rate as a condition of assumption.

This is what has occurred with your mortgage and such action often destroys the advantage of the old loan. If the lender holding your mortgage has the legal right, under the terms of the old mortgage, to increase the rate of interest, then there is nothing you can do to prevent such action.

But if the loan is owned by the Federal National Mortgage Association, nicknamed Fannie Mae, a new loan may be arranged at below-market rates.

While the new rate of interest will no doubt be greater than your existing rate, it will more than likely be less than what your lender is attempting to charge.

Not only that, but the loan amount may be increased to as much as 95 percent of the current property value.

By increasing the loan amount, you, as the seller, will be able to sell to people who otherwise would not be able to come up with enough equity to assume the existing mortgage.

For more information on this subject, contact your lender to see if your mortgage is owned by Fannie Mae. If it is, you may be in luck.

Perils of Creative Financing

QUESTION: Although interest rates charged by banks have continued to drop in recent months, the dollar amount I need to buy a house is still too large. Sellers seem to be ready to finance part of the selling price with owner financing. Is seller financing the answer? J.C., Lexington

ANSWER: Dear J.C.: As someone in the market for a new home, you should be somewhat suspicious of offers by sellers for a quick-fix means of getting you into the house.

While this is not to imply that all seller-financing is bad, certainly that is not the case, enough bad things can happen to warrant caution on your part.

Numerous hazards and pitfalls await unwary buyers and sellers in today's real estate market.

In most situations, buyers will pay a premium in terms of the selling price rather than receiving the total cash.

Thus, you should consider the lower interest rate in comparison to the higher selling price.

Both buyer and seller need to recognize and be prepared to cope with the hazards of their financing terms.

Otherwise they are likely to lose their money, their property or both.

The inability of the buyer to come up with the cash necessary to pay the balloon payment at the end of the financing period may cause default and foreclosure on the loan. Such has been the case in a number of instances in recent months.

So-called creative financing does offer a variety of ways to avoid high-cost financing offered by lenders. But new ideas rarely come without costs. Be as informed as you can about the pros and cons of any financing techniques before entering an agreement.

REGULATORY BODY
QUESTION: Can you please give me some general information about the real estate commission? I am curious about how it functions. J. F., Magee

ANSWER: Dear J. F.: Included in state real estate license laws are provisions for the creation of real estate commissions. It is the duty of a commission to administer the real estate laws of a particular state.

Under certain conditions commissions also have the authority to refuse, suspend or revoke licenses for just cause, provided constitutional due process is afforded the applicant or licensee.

The real estate commission is comprised of persons called commissioners, normally appointed by the governor for specific terms, who act as a governing or policy-making body of the commission. The actual number of commissioners varies from state to state.

A chief administrative officer is employed to do all things deemed necessary to carry out the duties of the real estate commission.

This person will be someone who possesses a broad knowledge of the generally accepted practices in the real estate business and will be well informed as to the real estate license laws in that state. The chief administrator's staff will include assistants, investigators, education directors, clerical staff and others.

The commission meets periodically in public session and anyone has the right to appear and be heard. Accurate accounting records of fees collected and expenses incurred must be kept; funds collected by the commission are normally deposited into the state treasury.

If you are interested in finding out more about the real estate licensing laws or if you would like to look into the requirements for obtaining a license, you should write to Mississippi Real Estate Commission, 1920 Dunbarton, Jackson, MS 39216.

For answer to other questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, Miss. 38677.

DEED RESTRICTIONS ARE POPULAR

QUESTION: A nice subdivision I have visited has lots for sale. I was told that the developer had included tough deed restrictions for potential buyers. As far as I know, the area where I now live does not have any restrictions. Can you explain deed restrictions and how they work? B. P., Lucedale

ANSWER: Dear B. P.: Deed restrictions, or restrictive covenants, are popular tools used by many developers to preserve the value and protect the attractiveness of property.

Covenants may prevent commercial activities within an exclusively residential area. The party imposing the restrictions must own the land. The covenants are then transferred from the original owner to subsequent owners who are legally bound to the terms and conditions.

If a covenant is breached, remedy is restricted to a suit for money damages or injunctive relief. Through covenants it is possible to limit the land-use activities that are permitted, to limit height and density of structure, to require minimum floor area ratios and other such restrictions. Deed restrictions accomplish the same things for the individual that zoning and subdivision regulations accomplish for local government. If there is a conflict between the application of a zoning restriction and a deed restriction, the more restrictive of the two applies.

Certain covenants which discriminate against persons on the basis of race or other reasons will not be enforced by the courts because they violate the U.S. Constitution.

In order to be enforced, deed restrictions must be clearly specified and may be included directly in the deed or cited by reference to a previously recorded plat. In addition, the restrictions must be reasonable and usually must be limited in time. Many states limit deed restrictions to 20, 30 or 50 years.

For answers to questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, MS 38677.

ASCS Report

CERTIFY CROPS
Farmers have only a few weeks left to report their 1983 planted acres to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The final certification date is July 15.

Program participants are required to report crops and acreage planted, the uses to be made of these crops and cropland acres to be devoted to conservation uses. "Non-participants need to certify their crops for future programs," said Gennin.

In addition to history purposes, the acreage reports are also necessary for proven yields.

ASCS will randomly check farms to verify that acreage reports are accurate and have aerial photographs available for farmers to identify their fields. To be sure of planted acres, farmers can request measurement service.

For a fee based on the number of acres to be measured, a farmer can request that his planted crops be measured prior to reporting acreage.

This is a valuable service not only to producers participating in the acreage reduction and payment-kind programs, but to any farmer who desires an accurate acreage measurement for any reason," said Bennin.

Crop certification is necessary before the farmer can receive price support and other program benefits.

The ASCS official said spring seeded crops may be certified Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. "We hope that farmers will report their acres well in advance of the July 15 deadline.

TRESPASSING—A curious polar bear rests its paws on top of a steel cage containing National Geographic still photographer David Hiser in "Polar Bear Alert," which will be rebroadcast at 8 p.m., Wednesday, July 27, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Hiser's purpose was to photograph the bear at eye level; its interest in him and his camera from this towering position was unexpected. The program, first seen in March 1982, will be aired again at 10:30 p.m., Sunday, July 13.

ETV Briefs

WOMAN FARMER

The story of an innovative woman who left her comfortable home and job in Milwaukee to return to her home state, Mississippi, and become a vegetable farmer will be told on "Farmweek" at 7:30 p.m., Monday, July 25, on Mississippi ETV.

Vera Hawthorne will show her small-scale Kosciusko farming operation to viewers and explain her decision to begin raising vegetables there. She plans to expand the farm each year, and in the meantime, she will continue to work toward a master's degree in educational psychology.

In addition to this profile "Farmweek" will offer farm news, market reports, weather forecasts, production tips for farmers and news of upcoming agricultural events in the state.

The series is co-produced by Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

GREEK CLASSIC

Zoe Caldwell and Judith Anderson star in Robinson Jeffers' adaptation of the Greek classic "Medea," to be rebroadcast on "Kennedy Center Tonight" at 10 p.m., Monday, July 25, on the Mississippi ETV Network. It was first seen on ETV earlier this spring.

"Medea" depicts the ultimate revenge of a passionate woman who is cast aside by her ambitious husband, bent on marrying his way to new power and riches. The two children involved become the victims of Medea's rage.

Baptist music conference to feature piano concert

The highlight of a Music Leadership Conference at Gulfshore Baptist Assembly July 20-23 will be a piano duo concert July 22 at 8 p.m. in the assembly auditorium. The public is invited.

Guest artists will be Michael Smith, minister of music at Parkway Baptist Church, Jackson, and Tommy Byrd, assistant minister of music and organist at Parkway.

Two Steinway grand pianos are being provided for the concert by Werlein's for Music, Edgewater.

The piano team will be accompanied by an orchestral ensemble composed of instrumentalists from across the state.

The concert is a culmination of a year of special emphasis in church music, "Reaching People Through Instrumental Music."

Gulfshore Baptist Assembly is a training and retreat center on Henderson Point, operated by the Mississippi Baptist Convention Board.

Council on Aging sponsoring conference

Approximately 200 representatives of a wide range of organizations serving Mississippi's aged are expected to attend the Third Annual State Education and Training Conference, sponsored by the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA) July 26-27 at Jackson's Sheraton Regency Inn.

Following the theme, "Older Mississippians, A Growing Resource," the conference will begin at 8:30 a.m. on July 26 and include workshops on a variety of subjects of interest to those serving the aging.

Among the workshop subjects are performance-based contracts and evaluation, the changing federal scene, Alzheimer's Disease, information management in the 80s, senior center activities and mental health and the elderly.

Presenters will include Dr. Paul Cotton, Ellisville State Hospital; Dr. John Lovitt, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service; Terri Czarnecki, Alcorn County Human Resource Agency; Billy Simmons, Medicaid Commission; Marvin Tatum, Social Security Administration; Frank Nicholson, Administration on Aging - Regional Office; Bobby Gann, Golden Triangle Area Agency on Aging; S. E. Sutherland, Veterans Administration, and John Turcotte, PEER Committee.

"The conference," said Jay C. Moon, MCOA executive director, "will demonstrate that the aging program in Mississippi is carried on by an inter-related group of entities that constantly are striving to improve their effectiveness by joint efforts."

Further information on the conference may be obtained by contacting the Mississippi Council on Aging, 802 N. State St., Jackson 39201, telephone 354-6590.

ETV Brief

POLAR BEARS

Each year around Halloween, a town on the west coast of Hudson Bay in Arctic Canada plays host to migrating polar bears. How the citizens of Churchill, Manitoba, cope with—and protect—these massive, extremely dangerous animals is the subject of the national Geographic Special, "Polar Bear Alert," to be rebroadcast at 8 p.m., Wednesday, July 27, on the Mississippi ETV Network. It was first seen on ETV last year.

Polar bears, while they may look cuddly, are widely acknowledged to be one of the world's largest, most dangerous carnivores. A mature male can stand 10 feet, weigh as much as 1,200 pounds, eat 50 pounds of meat at one time and run faster than the fastest man. One swipe of an enormous paw can kill and 800-pound seal.

To keep track of the bears as they approach the Churchill environs, the Manitoba Department of Natural Resources sets up a bear patrol on 24-hour alert.

So successful have the patrol's efforts been that no humans have been mauled since 1968.

St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church Parish News

By FATHER B.C. KELLER

Each of us is always on the verge of a breakthrough in prayer. That statement is true at any time, at any point in our lives. Today's celebration invites us to consider what obstacles prevent us from moving on to deeper intimacy.

Tomorrow the Hancock County Branch NAACP will meet at the First Missionary Baptist Church at 7 p.m.

On Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. the Little People Choir will practice; at 6:30 p.m., the Gospel Choir will practice.

On Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. the St. Rose Alumni Association will meet in the rectory. On Saturday, July 23, 11 a.m. until 6 p.m., the alumni will sponsor a benefit dinner at our cafeteria—fried chicken, $2.50; bar-b-que goat, $2.75.

Our young adult parishioners 18 to 26 are invited to meet with other Catholic young adults of the diocese to pray and play together. Place? The Sacred heart Center in Biloxi, behind Cathedral. Time? 7:30 p.m. with 9:30 p.m. every Wednesday until the end of August.

Our Altar Society will meet next Sunday in the rectory after the 9 a.m. Mass.

Parishioners are invited by Ada and Albert Walker to attend the wedding of their daughter, Sharon Shipp, and Henderson Oliver III, to be held at Valena C. Jones Methodist Church on Saturday, July 30, at 2:30 p.m. Reception will be at Waveland Resort Inn, 3:30 till 5:30 p.m. Congratulations to Dione Singleton, daughter of Maurice and Georgia Singleton, who was crowned Miss St. Rose 1983-84 at the 9 a.m. Mass on July 3.

Thyra Labat, daughter of Bernard and Dorothy Labat, was honored as runnerup in the contest.

At the same celebration Paxton Williams, son of Laura Williams, was crowned as Baby of St. Rose 1983-1984.

The runnerups were also honored then. First runnerup was Teena Marie Johnson, daughter of Ethel Johnson. Second runnerup was Sidney Bell, son of Sullivan and Diane Bell.

MASS SCHEDULE
Sunday, 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Daily, Monday through Saturday, 6:30 a.m. Saturday (Vigil) 6 p.m. Mother of Perpetual Help Novena at beginning of Tuesday, mass.

Confessions are heard half-hour before weekend Masses and upon request.

Among the gods there is none like you, O Lord; no deeds can compare with yours. All the nations you have made will come and worship before you, O Lord; they will bring glory to your name. For you are great and do marvelous deeds; you alone are God.

Mobile Medic Ambulance Services

You may be one of the more than 10,000 members of Mobile Medic Ambulance Service. If so, you have helped provide the highest quality emergency medical service available at a cost every family can afford... only $39.00 a year.

If you're not a member, you need to know about the lifesaving advantages of joining Mobile Medic. We've set up a 24 hour phone center through the month of July. Our operators are on duty to answer any questions you may have about membership.

Call on Mobile Medic at:

868-1122

(1-868-1122 toll free in Hancock County)

You can enroll by giving our operators the information over the phone. Your membership fee can be charged to Master Card or Visa, or you may mail the application.

Call Mobile Medic. We're here to answer your questions. Also, we will print some of the more frequent questions and answers in our newspaper ads:

Question:
We have insurance.
Why should we join Mobile Medic?

Answer:
We all need insurance. It serves a vital need. Mobile Medic membership is not an insurance policy but serves an equally vital need. Insurance may cover the $275.00 average cost of ambulance service, it won't provide the ambulances and trained paramedics. That is made possible only by the more than 10,000 members who share the enormous cost of providing quality emergency medical service at a cost every family can afford... only $39.00 per year.

Question:
We're young and healthy, why should we join Mobile Medic?

Answer:
You need it most. The majority of traumatic injury cases involve young people. The quick timing and advanced life support administered by Mobile Medic can make the difference between life and death.

DUPONT QUALIFIES FOR PROGRAM—Gathering just after E.I. Du Pont de Nemours and Co.'s Delisle Plant employees were informed the facility is the first to qualify for the United States Occupational Safety and Health Administration's 'Star' voluntary protection program and viewing the framed OSHA award for outstanding worker safety performance are, from left, Mississippi's U.S. Rep. Trent Lott; Rebecca L. Rose, special assistant to the U.S. Assistant Secretary of Labor; and David L. Settle, Delisle Plant manager. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Du Pont's Delisle Plant first to qualify for OSHA program

E.I. Du Pont de Nemours and Co.'s Delisle Plant received the first of a special recognition from the United States Occupational Safety and Health Administration in ceremonies at the plant recently.

Rebecca L. Rose, special assistant to the U.S. Assistant Secretary of Labor, said the plant is the first chemical facility in the U.S. to qualify for participation in OSHA's 'Star' voluntary protection program for outstanding safety performance.

The official designation was accepted on behalf of the company's 500 Delisle employees by David L. Settle, plant manager.

Speaking at the plant award ceremony, Settle said, "We are honored by this recognition from OSHA. Du Pont believes all accidents and injuries in the workplace can be eliminated. This honor really goes to Delisle's employees for their commitment to do their jobs in a safe manner."

De Lisle's participation in the 'Star' program means the plant will be exempt from routine OSHA safety and health inspections, he revealed.

The agency still would investigate any serious accidents or employee complaints. The plant's participation will be re-evaluated every three years, Settle reported.

To qualify for 'Star,' both a plant's average injury incidence and also its lost-workday case rates for the past three years must be at or below the most recent national average for its industry, he states.

The Del Lisle plant's average injury incidence from 1980-82 was nearly three times better than its industry classification, inorganic pigments. The plant had one-tenth the lost-workday injuries of its industry counterparts, the plant manager reported.

Settle said in a press release issued from Washington, D.C., by Thorne G. Auchter, assistant secretary of labor and head of OSHA, states, "Only the very best safety and health programs can qualify for 'Star'—OSHA's most prestigious voluntary program. De Lisle's program is

'Star' quality in every way. The key to its superb effort is a strong corporate commitment to employee protection."

"When members of the OSHA staff visited De Lisle, they found a dedication to job safety and health that echoed from the front office to the line employee," Auchter said. "At De Lisle, safety is not secondary; it is viewed as the partner of production. This philosophy of making employee protection an important element of plant routine is what we at OSHA preach and what De Lisle practices so impressively."

Settle reports OSHA officials also said the De Lisle program is distinguished by its management accountability for employee protection, a comprehensive training program, its computerized employee health records, a fine medical program, a complete hazard control system and numerous audits to assure effective operation of its safety and healthy program.

The plant produces titanium dioxide, a white pigment used in paint, paper and plastics.

Lingering prejudice hides important merits of goat

By PHILIP BREEZE
Cooperative Extension Service

Long disparaged as the poor man's cow, dairy goats may actually be the smart man's cow, sort of the dairy equivalent of the economy car.

Goats can graze places where cows can't even stand. Goats can flourish on vegetation that would starve a cow, and pound for pound, they can give more milk than the average cow. The milk also is more easily digested by humans.

Goats have some obvious virtues, but like any form of domestic livestock, they also have a set of disadvantages, and chief among them for the goat, is a centuries-old image problem in their association with man.

Goats have suffered scorn, derision and even hatred down through the centuries. Even today many Mississippians as well as other Americans are inclined to avoid them.

Dr. Louis Blumh, professor of rural sociology at Mississippi State University, said goats have suffered from this image problem for at least the past 2,000 years.

In addition to being a sociologist, Blumh also is a dairy goat herd owner and is president of the Mississippi Goat Club, formed in June to help improve the image and production of dairy goats in Mississippi.

Blumh said the bad image for goats extends back to pre-

Christian times where goats were heavily incorporated into many pre-Christian religions. As Christianity spread, old religions and old religious symbols were replaced.

Blumh explained that even as Christianity flourished and spread to Europe in the middle ages, primitive religions endured. Many of those religions involved goats as a symbol of fertility.

The persistence of the old religions served only to reinforce the image of the goat as an unchristian symbol.

Blumh's interest in goats is not theological, however. He has a much more practical reason for the interest. He sees the rugged animals as part of a hunger solution for many Mississippians.

"If you look at some parts of Mississippi you can see that they have thin top soil not suited to mechanical farming, and all along the Tenn-Tom, for example, there are plots of land that are not conducive to the marketplace because of numerous heirs, one of whom usually lives on the place. Plus many rural counties have limited employment opportunities.

"All these things together suggest a small-area, labor-intensive industry that will work on marginal land. That's a dairy goat," Blumh said.

There is already a demand for goat milk products in the area. Mississippi imports a great deal of goat cheese and Blumh doesn't see the need for that when the cheese could be produced here at home.

In addition Blumh sees a relatively small market of people who are allergic to cow milk. Children who are allergic to cow milk frequently respond quite well to goat milk.

Mississippi State University Professor of Veterinary Medicine Steve Waldham explained why many people who are allergic to cow milk can drink goat milk.

The molecules of fat in goat milk are smaller than those in cow milk. Long-chain fat molecules, those found in cow milk, are wax-like, while short chain fat molecules such as those in goat milk are oil-like.

The oil-like substances are easier to digest than the wax-like substances, according to Waldham.

Blumh found in a taste test among his students that seven out of nine preferred the goat milk to cow milk when they did not know which they were drinking.

Jim Yonge, 4-H youth specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, sees dairy goats as an excellent vehicle through which to teach children.

"The 4-H motto is 'learn by doing' and lots of kids learn by taking care of and showing an animal. The size and nature of goats make them compatible to showing. People will tell you goats are friendly and pet-like, Yonge said.

Another virtue of goats is their lack of and resistance to many of the diseases that plague cattle. They do, however, have their own set of diseases that can hamper production.

"We've never found brucellosis in a goat in the U.S.," Waldham said. We test goats for the same brucellosis that cows get and we've never found it. That may be because we haven't looked far enough or because they are resistant. We don't know.

"It is my feeling that because they are potentially susceptible 'we should continue to test,'" Waldham said. Goats also seem to be more resistant to tuberculosis than cows. Moreover, parasitic blood diseases that are devastating to cattle do not seem to bother many tropical breeds of goats.

"Every gullied ravine grown up in hardwoods and morningglories could be utilized by goats, and if not too many goats are on in a given area they won't kill the trees," Waldham said.

POST OFFICE POTPOURRI

By TOM HILL
Postmaster,
Bay St. Louis

FIRST-CLASS MAIL

The following items are always considered 'First-Class Mail':

Handwritten and typewritten messages, including identical copies, but excluding computer material; bills and statements of account; notebooks or account books containing handwritten or typewritten entries; post cards and postal cards; canceled and uncanceled checks; printed forms filled out in writing; printed price lists with written or typed changes; greeting cards, sealed and not marked 'Third-Class'; business reply mail.

Any other type of mail may be sent as First-Class at your option. Postage required is 17 cents per ounce plus 3 cents, up thru 12 ounces.

Priority mail is first-class mail weighing more than 12 ounces. It is used when fast transportation and expeditious handling are desired. The maximum weight for priority mail is 70 pounds, and the maximum size is 100 inches in length and girth combined.

When using priority mail, be sure to mark the package or envelope 'Priority Mail' in large letters on all sides to ensure proper handling. Postage depends on weight and distance sent, so please consult your post office for proper rate.

A surcharge is charged on all non-standard mail—that is, mail which exceeds any of the following standards: a height of 6 1/4 inches, a length of 11 1/2 inches or a thickness of 1/4 inch.

Pieces which are 1/4 of an inch or less in thickness are nonmailable, unless they are rectangular in shape, at least 3 1/2 inches high, at least 3 inches long, and at least .007 of an inch thick (about the thickness of a postal card).

Items such as keys and identification devices are not subject to the minimums. Other mail not meeting these standards will be returned to sender. For more information, consult your local post office.

Next time we will discuss the difference between certified mail and registered mail. Meanwhile, be reminded that there are two new 20 cent commemorative stamps on sale, the Babe Ruth and the Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

I've written several articles dealing with children and money management. Are you ready for one more? A friend suggested the Kiddycheck system to me, and I'm passing the information to you.

Your child deposits his allowance with his banker (mom or dad), and when he needs cash he writes a check which his parents redeem. It keeps a checkbook register with a running balance.

He makes out and cashes a check to buy such staples as movie tickets, comic books, church tithe, ice cream, and video games. There is a 10 cents charge for overdrafts. Better that he learn at 10 cents than at $7.50 per insufficient funds check later in life.

My friend typed up his own check forms and named his bank "The First Parental Bank and Savings Company." It does require parental time and attention but is a great way to teach your child the banking part of financial management. Let me know if you try it.

Little theatre slates workshop

Gulfport Little Theatre's annual Children's Summer Drama Workshop will be held July 18-August 12.

The workshop, under the direction of Jacques Gavin, drama instructor from Dallas, Texas, will meet three mornings a week from 9-12.

The workshop will be held at the GLT Building on Deborah Place. Classes will be available for young people ages 7-18. The workshop will conclude with performances on Aug. 12.

Workshop fees are $35 per child. There is a reduction in price for more than one child per family for GLT members. Registration will be July 18 at 8:30 at the GLT building.
